FIFTY-SEVENTH YEAR NO. 27

CEDARVILLE, OHIO, FRIDAY JUNE 8, 1934

PRICE, $1.50 A YEAR

ENTERS RACE FOR GOVERNORSHIP

Clarence J. Brown Makes Formal Announcement Of His Candidacy

Charging the present Democratic state administration with attempting to "entrench its political machine" in all departments of state and local governments, extravagance and failure to solve financial problems, Clarence J. Brown has formally announced his candidacy for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

The former lieutenant governor and secretary of state who was runner-up in the Republican gubernatorial primary two years ago, admitted changed condition, and said he "re-

CLARENCE J. BROWN

fuses to believe that there are any governmental problems which cannot be solved by the application of the plain old-fashioned virtues of common sense, common decency and common honesty."

"We have heard only talk about finding the means of new revenues; now, what are we doing about the only attitude toward government which makes new revenues necessary—simplification of government and economy in administration," Brown said.

"Instead, we have witnessed the imposition of numerous new taxes and an increase of millions of dollars in state expenditures—mostly for political personnel."

"It is typical of the present administration that while it could find no funds to prevent hundreds of schools from closing or to pay the salaries of thousands of loyal teachers, it was able to supply the means to put Ohio into the liquor business with an attendant liquor-controlled political machine, as well as to find vast sums to further augment this machine in other bureaus and departments of state."

"The problem of a taxation program and the maintenance of our educational system can and must be solved," the candidate said, "Many divisions of government close to the people and affecting their daily lives, such as public utilities, highways, public welfare, workmen's compensation and conservancy can and must be made to better serve the average man and woman of Ohio."

The candidate said he would make his fight for the principles he had enunciated "with no pledge expressed or implied, to any, except that I shall do my best."

DIVORCE SUITS

Three wives seek to sever marital knots in suits on file in Common Pleas Court.

Bertha Oster, in a suit against Frank M. Oster, Port William, charges absence from home for more than three years are charged by Edna Jung, R. R. 2 Cedarville, in a suit band gambles his money away, the

Because of failure of the defendants to comply with a court order of May 19, 1933, specifying payment of taxes gaged property has been directed in the case of Jane Arthur against E.

A. Allen and others. The plaintiff ment.

president of the Greene County Fish

Council Asks For Greene County Traffic Regulation Demonstration

Council in regular monthly session Monday evening at the suggestion of Member Marshall, urged a stricter enforcement of parking and traffic regulation. There has been some complaint about parking violations and motorists may find a ticket on the car if you do not watch out.

The usual routine of business was transacted, mostly the payment of the monthly bills.

Council also considered the return to normal street lighting as soon as possible. Since the closing of the Exchange Bank with village funds tied up, the number of street lights had to be reduced. This will be welcome news to citizens that have traveled streets where there has been a shortage of lights.

Candidates For Committees File

Restrictions On Pastures Removed

Word was received from Washington at the local offices of the Wheat and Corn-Hog Control Associations Friday morning to the effect that all restrictions have been removed relative to the production of pasture and forage crops on the farms under contract.

This action promoted by the intense drought throughout Ohio which has caused serious damage to all crops.
Contracted acres may either be pastured or the crop cut for hay and all limitations on the planting of emergency hay and pasture crops on the remainder of the land in farms has been removed.

OLD LAND MARK BEING LEVELLED; BUILDING USELESS

The frame structure on the Barr lot on south Main street that for many years served as a furniture store and funeral establishment has served its time and decay reduced it until it was no longer suitable for business purposes. The building was one of the early business places on that end of the street but is soon to pass into history as it is being wrecked and removed.

Local Rain Big Aid To Crops

After weeks of dry weather under a scorching sun rain fell here Monday evening that covered a good part of the township. However there were sections north and south of town that did not get the amount that fell east and west. In this immediate neighborhood the rain came down in torrents and soaked the soil to a depth of more than ten inches where it was loose. Other sections had been considerably high wind. It has been months since we have had the same amount of rainfall in the space of an hour.

J. A. Finney, Xenia attorney, who suffered a heavy livestock loss recent-fourth of his flock, were killed by dogs. Commissioners also approved another large claim of $95 presented by W. K. Cooley, Cedarville Twp.

factory, including a stemmery and cigar plant, are possible through the efforts of E. B. Boxwell, formerly head of the plant on West Second Street, that city. It is proposed to vacant. Eastern interests are behind the movement. Xenians are much interested in securing the new factory that will employ a number of experienced people, most of whom reside in that city.

DEATH CALLS BURTON TURNER WEDNESDAY

Mr. Burton Turner died Wednesday, June 6, 1934, at the home near Cedarville, Ohio, where he was born August 8, 1879, and where he had always lived. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Turner, and was one of four children, the remaining three are John of Cedarville; Mrs. Mary Swaby of Clifton; and Mrs. Gertrude Yoder of Belle Center, Ohio.

Mr. Turner was taken with a serious illness about four years ago, and everything was done that human skill could do to conquer the disease, but evidently his work on earth was completed and he has gone to his reward in the heavenly home, where there is no sickness nor sorrow nor suffering.
Mr. Turner had great faith in God and manifested wonderful Christian patience in the many long weeks of suffering. He has been a life long member of the United Presbyterian Church of Cedarville, and was always found in his appointed place.

The funeral services will be held from the late home Saturday at 1:30 p. m., in charge of his pastor, Rev.
R. A. Jamieson.

Mr. Burton Turner is survived by his wife, Mrs. Lucy Shaw Turner, and six children, Milton, Gregg, Charlotte, Maude, Genevieve, and Beatrice.
To these sorrowing relatives and friends, the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community is extended.

Burial takes place at Woodland Cemetery, Xenia.

Candidate Tears In Lobby Activities

Nelson Sparks, Akron, one of the many candidates for governor in this state before the primary, in a speech before a Republican Club in Washington C. H., a few nights ago, put D. C. Pemberton, profession lobbyist and self-styled political boss of the Seventh District, on the spot. What Sparks had to say about the activities of Republican leaders and the manner in which the party has been sold out not only for legislation but to the Democrats, added a new picture to the situation in this district.
Sparks laid several serious charges of betrayal before Pemberton and Ed.
Schorr, state chairman. Indications are that the contest started some weeks ago against Pemberton's control of the Seventh District is to be pushed with more vigor and that professional lobbyists in politics will end in a state-wide fight. Raymond B.
Howard is the candidate for Seventh District Committeeman, and is opposed by Sherman Deaton, Pembroton's candidate.

LET'S HAVE A NEW DEAL

It was a pleasure to read in a Springfield paper the other day that Orville Wear, Republican County Chairman, would refuse to attend a meeting in the county seat, called ostensibly for the purpose of endorsing candidates. The endorsement sought above all others was that of Sherman Deaton, of Urbana, against Raymond B. Howard, of London, both candidates for state central committeemen in the seventh Ohio district.

Deaton has had five terms and is the candidate of D. C. Pemberton, Columbus lobbyist, who is credited with practically owning the Republican organization machinery in several counties. Pemberton has been able to "deliver" the seventh district in any way he sees fit for too long. Control of candidates and party organization by a paid lobbyist is a disgrace, to say nothing of its detrimental effect on the Republican party of the district.

When this man Howard decided to seek the place, he was told in no uncertain terms that he was not acceptable to Pemberton. That's all the more reason why he should be given a hundred percent vote. Anyone who isn't acceptable to Pemberton must have a lot of good in him.

Howard says he stands squarely against "inside control" and is opposed to the commercialized politics that has been played by Pemberton. Knowing the man personally (and we're not prejudiced either for or against him because he happens to be a member of our noble profession, we'll stake our reputation that Howard will insist on having everything open and above board. The job pays no salary, but the State Central Committee handles the affairs of party organization and maps out policies and plans. Those policies and plans determine whether or not the party goes to the people with "clean hands."

Howard is the man to strip off the Pemberton tentacles which have held seventh district Republicanism all these years. —South Charleston Sentinel.

WATCHOUT FOR COUNTY REFORM MOVEMENT

The rural voters in Ohio had it put over them in grand style in approving the constitutional amendment that makes possible the revamping of the state map. County lines can be wiped out in any manner that suits the pleasure of the city political bosses. The pre-campaign pledge for the constitutional change was prefaced with the idea that we would have more economy in county government and thus give tax payers more relief. It is true certain offices can be abolished as elective, but the power of appointment is more certain under the new plan. In this way the electors will not be able to have a say directly as to who should serve them in a public capacity.

The rural electors, or at least few of them, never gave the problem of self control much consideration. If counties are united in the name of economy they will be so placed that the large city dominated counties will dictate to the rural sections, who will be helpless. Supporters of prohibition will find no comfort in the new movement for selection of state senators and representatives are to come from the city districts on the basis of population. With this lineup prohibition in Ohio may be more distant than it was fifty years ago. A meeting is soon to be held to organize the state in behalf of the new plan. In the list we find the name of a prominent officer of the State Grange as well as a high up officer in the Farm Bureau. All we have to say is "Keep your eye on any change proposed to abolish county lines." If you do not you may get the opportunity of helping pay some of the million bonded debt of a city in some nearby county. Under the new constitution a city can extend its corporate lines to include as much of the county as it desires.

OHIO ELECTORS URGE BROWN'S NOMINATION

The announcement appears this week that Clarence J. Brown, former Secretary of State, is to be a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor of this state. This should be welcome news to thousands of Republicans who have tired and become disgusted with the kind of government the state has had the past two years.

Mr. Brown sought the nomination for this high office two years ago and carried most of the counties in the state. He was opposed by the big city bosses and there has never been any doubt but what he was counted out in Cuyahoga county. He lost at that time to a citizen of that county, mainly because the county boss, who is dean of the lobby element in Ohio, was not satisfied nor would he take a chance on Mr. Brown being the next governor.

Two years ago Mr. Brown sought the office, having served with honor to himself and distinction to the state, as Secretary of State. It was his duty to supervise elections and see that election laws were observed. It was also an unfortunate experience that he was compelled to remove all the members of the election board in Cuyahoga county, that recognized no superior other than the Republican boss in that county. This naturally angered the boss, who took vengeance and another chance in enforcing gang methods in defeating Mr. Brown.

Mr. Brown has been reluctant to announce this year but he has heeded the urge from his thousands of friends and is again to be a candidate in a field of numerous candidates. Friends in most every county have volunteered to circulate his petitions. Several of the counties that did not endorse him two years ago see no hope for Republican victory this fall unless Mr. Brown is nominated.

The Herald has no interest in the Brown campaign other than we have utmost faith that should he get the nomination and election he will serve the state with the same devotion and unselfish purpose which marked his two terms as Secretary of State. Mr. Brown comes from Blanchester in Clinton county. His support two years ago was almost unanimous from the rural counties which we believe will be even more loyal this year. With issues facing the state for settlement the rural element will have an honest and conscientious executive in Mr. Brown that will be fair to all sections of Ohio, rural and urban.

STATE LAWS CANNOT PREVENT CONVERTING

A timely legal opinion has been handed down by Horace Russell, general counsel for the Federal Home Loan bank, who holds that regardless of state laws, any building group wishing to change from State to Federal charter can do so when 51 per cent of the shareholders vote for conversion.

For weeks and months those interested in building and loans have been hearing about the necessity of special laws in Ohio to permit such institutions adopting the federal plan. You have the answer in the above ruling, yet Gov. White's political wreckers for pap purposes will contend differently. Not so long ago we raised the same question with an important Xenia attorney on the ground that federal laws supersede state laws, and why was it the state had to give consent? His answer was much the same as given in the federal ruling.

It is very likely that in the near future most of the building and loans in Ohio will adopt the federal plan to get away from the constant political dickering that has kept things in an uproar. The state politicians will likely oppose such a move fearing the loss of so many jobs, the outstanding accomplishment of the White administration.

Good merchandising has really become one of the fine arts.

The low level to which the motion picture industry has degenerated may yet displace what danger the saloon once spread over the nation.

According to The Xenia Herald some Cedarville Democrat must not take kindly to the way political patronage is being handled in this county. Appointments are to be made soon for postmasters in Yellow Springs and Jamestown. Examinations have been held but so far as we know no grades have been given the public. The Cedarville Democrat must be paving the way for the opening here some months in the future when there will be a vacancy. As we scan the correspondent's idea there is much friction among the faithful, for non-activity on the part of the executive committee. The idea of the article is to uncover who is dictating the patronage appointments for the county; on the other hand reading between the lines there is criticism because there are no appointments being made. We know nothing about how civil service examinations are being held. It has been our experience that few if any of them have ever been on the square, and this includes Republican as well as Democratic control. Civil service is much like some of the New Deal program, looks good on paper, but is not practical because it is controlled for selfish purposes. If you are not on the inside you might as well save yourself some disappointment.

A Columbus paper says D. C. Pemberton, Columbus lobbyist, is retiring from the political game, being disgusted. That should be interesting news, if true, which few believe is likely. First place Pemberton might just as well give up lobbying if he gives up political activity. His control over state senators and representatives is almost required to make lobbying a success and still draw thousands of dollars yearly as salary from the railroads he represents. The response the newspapers of the Seventh District are giving Raymond B. Howard, London publisher, who is opposing the Pemberton candidate for district committeeman, Sherman Deaton, means that much discomfort to the political dictator in the district. As the campaign progresses, the higher the lid is to be lifted, and this may be the grounds for the Columbus report that Pemberton is retiring from politics. He is not to be given a chance to voluntarily retire. Some of these days a decree will be handed down from the Republican voters that will give him retirement. There will be few of the newspapers in the district that will stand for dictation from Pemberton or any of his stool-pigeons.

The brain trust can sit in an office in Washington and dream as to the possible outcome of any plan that might be proposed whether it is to control industry or agriculture. Those that believe we can forget our troubles by adopting the Tugwell "Wine, Women and Song" platform, of course could take no consideration of what the rain-maker might do or not do towards making crops possible. One of the leading state papers that espouses any plan the New Dealers propose makes light of the fact that there might be an unseen hand in the present agricultural situation. The trouble with the brain-trusters is there is no argument that would be convincing that a Supreme power guides all our activities in ways we know not of. The brain trust has already convinced itself that a monkey gland can do for a man what it was intended to do for a monkey but the average citizen is convinced the self styled brain-truster is not yet up to the average monkey when it comes to sound and sensible reasoning.

Gov. White months ago adopted the brain-trust idea of government for Ohio. While the governor galavants over the country by airplane and motor serving the state by proxy, a thing he promised the people would not exist if he was governor, the state is operated through many departments by university nuts, boodle politicians, bankers that could not successfully operate their banks, jazz songsters from night clubs and aviators. The state tax commission is composed of all varieties of business failures that is possible to put under one branch of government. The governor wanted more information on the tax situation in Ohio and a new department was created for that purpose. An inspection of the appointees should make the average Democrat red-headed and the rank Communist want to return to Russia. On this night club singer, who can sing his praises to the scarlet sisters that display their wares to the nocturnal bleary-eyed frequenters of the booze joints. An aviator without business or even tax experience also sits in this conference. Another is a traveling salesman that was out of a job, who never had experience in even handling affairs in the smallest municipality. For fear someone might kidnap the Governor or some of the Tax Commission the Chief Executive names a former house detective from a Columbus hotel to study tax measures. Another member is borrowed from O. S. U., to furnish the brains, yet is said to be lacking in tax experience. On the list is an unknown attorney of the justice of peace standing. Not a member of this study commission has ever had practical tax experience, few even know what it is to face the county treasurer twice a year. Such, Mr. and Mrs. Taxpayer, is the lineup of Gov. White's commission that is to study and recommend new tax laws for you. We wish them success. We feel sorry for the taxpayer.

Ohio continues to take on more buildings for office space to accommodate the political appointees Gov. White places on the pay roll. A few days ago the state rented the Pure Oil Building on High street, Columbus, not having room enough in state owned buildings. The people were promised the new state office building that cost six million dollars would serve the purpose for years to come and now it is filled to overflowing. There is no more desk space in the Capitol, the ten story Wyandotte building purchased some years ago, the old Hartman Hotel building, owned or under lease by the state.

Now that the Supreme Court of the United States has affirmed the sentence of five years given McClain Catterlin, 68, Brazil, Ind., "ancient estates" promoter, Prosecutor Marcus McCallister, who conducted the prosecution against strong legal talent for the defense, gets a hand. Catterlin was charged with selling unregistered membership, in violation of the Ohio law. In addition to the five years sentence Catterlin was also fined $2,000 by Judge Gowdy. Twenty-five or thirty years ago effort was made to revive the famous Harper estate case which at that time was reported as mythical. The older we get and the wiser we think we are the more apt some people are to buy into the something for nothing class. There are probably a few people that yet have faith in their investment. It was the legality of procedure and Prosecutor McCallister gets credit for laying the groundwork that met approval of the highest court.

We have had six months of guaranteed bank deposits after hundreds of failures with banks. In that time but two banks in the country under the new guarantee plan have failed and one of these is operating under restriction. The other is being liquidated. It is said that $6 million people now have their deposits in banks insured. With insurance for building and loans as proposed in Congress there would be not only more security, as with banks, but people would be better satisfied. The government in providing loans on farms and homes has done much to strengthen all such savings institutions but not enough to make them liquid as they once were. This will come only when there is prompt payment of interest and payments on loans. The mortgage moratorium not only injured building and loans but closed banks as well. For this reason the government should now provide the guarantee as with banks.

"Etude" Refuses Liquor Advertising Under the display heading, "No Liquor, Cigarettes, and Quack Medicines!" that high-class magazine known to every music lover as "The Etude" has announced its determination to use no advertising matter detrimental to the best interests of the public. This stand was published conspicuously in the April issue of the magazine, as follows:

"The readers of 'The Etude' have made it very clear to us that their appreciation of the ideals of 'The Etude' is so high that they would resent any advertisements in our pages that they feel are not in keeping with these standards. This issue of 'The Etude' could be ten times as large as it is if we took advertisements which many of our friends would find objectionable. It has been the policy of 'The Etude' to keep its advertising columns on a very high plane so that every advertisement would merit the confidence of our readers. Advertising support is of course essential to any magazine, in these days of high manufacturing and operating costs."

Sounding A Protest To "Delineator"

A protest by the Woman's League for Service of James M. E. Church in Brooklyn, New York, has been sent to the publishers of "The Delineator" against liquor advertising in its pages.

"Such advertisement in a woman's magazine of the unquestioned quality and service as is 'The Delineator' must mean the publishers think subscribers to this journal favor or are indifferent to the promoting of liquor-drinking among the women of America. But the unanimity of protest of this league of James Church is representative of millions of church women in our land who deplore the attempt to make liquor and acceptable the use of liquor. It is because we value 'The Delineator' as well as raise the standards of womanhood in America that we sign this protest and request the discontinuance of such advertisement."

Similar protests to the publishers of this home magazine might make them realize the wisdom of changing their policy as to liquor advertising.

The full truth and a much darker picture of the effects of alcohol is obtained when we consider the influence upon the succeeding generation. Alcoholism in the parents is one of the most ruinous factors in the health of the children, so that this and the mental strength also of the coming generation is unjustifiably injured. The drinking father squanders in drink not only his own intelligence, but the intelligence of his eventual descendants.

Professor Hans Berger.

Freemasonry takes an uncompromising stand on the liquor question. The Grand Master of the Ohio Grand Lodge cites section 58 of the code of that Grand Lodge which says:

"To engage in the selling of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes is a Masonic offense and should subject any Mason so offending to charges and expulsion; it should also be a disqualification for initiation or affiliation in a Masonic Lodge."

Three Chicago saloonkeepers who refused the pleading of wives not to sell liquor to their intoxicated husbands were severely censured by Judge Green, recently, and fined $100 and costs each. "The judge was particularly incensed," reported the "Herald and Examiner," at the case of a man so pilled with liquor by a saloonkeeper that, half-crazed, he went home, beat his wife and locked her and the three children outside in the snow and cold."

TEA FOR TWO

Nowadays, I often think we stand too much on the formality of an invitation before visiting our friends. What a delightful surprise for the guest who just drops in and what a pleasant feeling the hostess will have if she can serve tea daintily and easily. Why not keep a tray-loaded with the things necessary for a tea service, a tea caddy, lemon fork, dish, fancy loaf sugar, a few cloves, a pretty tea pot, cup and saucer and tea plates.

With the modern day electric refrigeration the little cakes, dainty sandwiches or a bit of salad need offer no great obstacle.

Tea Suggestions
When icing a cake save out a little of the icing. Spread this icing between graham crackers or other little plain cakes, sandwich style.

Some outstanding calves and lambs sold at prices higher than those quoted above. Quality of hogs was very good, but lower Eastern markets had a depressing effect, but in spite of this a heavy run was readily absorbed by order buyers and shippers. Today's sale marked the largest yet held here, both in number of consignors and number of head.
